

VERY IMPORTANT

To help you get the maximum benefit from the materials in this packet we suggest:

- ▶ 1st— Read the booklet, THE MAGIC OF LIVING FOREVER
- ▶ 2nd— Familiarize yourself with the large color diagram, “IN OUR FATHER’S HOUSE THERE ARE MANY MANSIONS”
- ▶ 3rd— Consider carefully the words and pictures in A PHOTO HISTORY OF MAN’S COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS
- ▶ 4th— Then listen to the recorded message.

Proceeds from the sale of these materials are used for further research into the nature of man.

Sorry, but due to limited staff and our involvement in day to day research, we cannot promise to answer any private correspondence.

NIRVANA AND OTHER STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS

THE VOID, OR PURE CONSCIOUSNESS (NON-VIBRATORY)

END OF MANIFEST CREATION (VIBRATORY)

COSMIC OR UNIVERSAL SPHERE OF AT-ONEMENT, THE GODHEAD AND OTHER LEVELS OF REALITY (LAST PLANE IN OUR SOLAR SYSTEM)

The nature of these planes of consciousness (as well as those still higher Galactic, Universal and Cosmic levels 7, 8, 9 and 10) are largely beyond the comprehension of persons now living on planet earth. The celestial planes are the location of the Christian God, Buddha, and all Gods of other religions on the earth plane. Biblically referred to as "The Third Heaven." Preliminary contact with the universal Godhead. Understanding of the universal life and energy systems of which our solar system is composed. The tapping of such levels of consciousness enabled the Nazarene to perform "miracles." This path is open, to each of us. This is what He meant when He said, "These things I do, you will do also, and greater things than these will ye do."

CELESTIAL PLANES

MENTAL AND CAUSAL PLANES

HIGHEST ASTRAL PLANES

Levels which offer unlimited scope for the further development of the individual mind and soul. Access to all of the accumulated wisdom of the ages on the earth plane and throughout other parts of our solar system. No jealousy, no judgement, complete brotherhood and no selfishness. Most of man's inventions, scientific advances, poetry, inspired prose, art and music originate here and are passed down to receptive minds on the earth plane (through the process called intuition!) For this and other reasons the intelligences on this level "cause" much of what happens on the lower planes. Final opportunity to return to the earth plane for more earth-life experience and growth; or if all factors are favorable then comes the final rebirth onto the celestial planes.

This wonderful realm of existence is generally what the Christian calls heaven. An apt term might be "The Summerland." No pain or suffering. There are happy meetings with those for whom a bond of love is felt, or groups formed of like-minded persons. There are unlimited opportunities and encouragement for each soul to grow in mental and spiritual consciousness. Interest in activities on planet earth decreases. Encounters with angels (lovely and helpful beings of non-human evolution.) Wider perspectives, greater vistas, magnificent panoramas! But eventually the soul must decide whether to return to the earth plane for more experience or to accept the second death. In the latter case, the mind and soul may shed its astral body or containment vehicle and be re-born onto that causal or mental level for which it has become qualified. When re-born, the soul will function in its mental or causal body.

Here the person "awakes" minutes, days, months, years, or centuries after learning and rehabilitation regarding past traumas.

“IN OUR FATHER’S HOUSE THERE ARE MANY MANSIONS”

In speaking 2,000 years ago the Man of Galilee used words like those above which people of that day could understand. TODAY, He might entitle the above chart “INTERPENETRATING levels of life and consciousness.” We could understand these terms because late 20th century science has taught us that everything in the cosmos, including Man, consists of various types of ENERGY at different vibratory rates or frequencies.

TODAY—After 24 years of frustratingly slow progress—often accompanied by ridicule and scorn—intrepid researchers in many countries are achieving some success in creating still another remarkable electromagnetic system. This one involves communication with the so-called dead.

The current development of SPIRICOM by Metascience Foundation researchers may be ranked, in the decades ahead, with the many innovative efforts that culminated in the telegraph, telephone, radio and phonograph. The term SPIRICOM (from spirit communication device) may someday even be a part of everyday language.

The accompanying recording consists of conversations with persons very much alive in other dimensions, as well as reports on research by those pictured here.

A PHOTO HISTORY OF MAN'S COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS

Man's recorded history on this planet stretches back about 8,000 years. But only in the last 150 years or so has man been communicating by means of electro-magnetic systems.

This means that in only 2 percent of man's time on earth he has moved from the carrier pigeon to communications satellites millions of miles out in space. We don't often take time to think about the rate at which the development of communications systems has been accelerating.

Just consider the picture as it unfolds here.

In 1558 Giovanni Battista della Porta proposed a message-sending device that would utilize magnetism. Man had known about magnetism since ancient times, but it was almost 300 years before the development of electro-magnets made della Porta's dream a reality.

1

In 1838 Samuel F.B. Morse demonstrated that clicks from an electromagnet could carry a message along a wire. From Washington to Baltimore he sent the message, "What hath God wrought?"

2

By 1876 Alexander Graham Bell demonstrated that wires could carry not only Morse's dots and dashes, but the tones of the human voice as well.

3

In 1877 Thomas Edison used a needle to capture the vibrations of a telephone mouthpiece, first on paraffin paper, then on tinfoil, and then on wax. He had invented the forerunner of today's magnetic audio and video tape recording systems.

4

5

By 1896 Guglielmo Marconi was demonstrating that the dots and dashes of telegraphy could be transmitted without a wire over long distances—even across the Atlantic Ocean!

6

It did not take long for Lee DeForest to prove that the “wireless” could carry the human voice, too. By 1907 those with the proper receivers could hear singers over the airwaves. Then Edwin Armstrong’s development of regenerative circuits in 1912 and the super-heterodyne radio in 1918 quickly advanced the state of the art.

7

Broadcasting of pictures would not be far behind. J.L. Baird of Scotland is credited with demonstrating the first complete television system in 1926, when he transmitted sound and halftone pictures. In America, Ernst Alexanderson, Edgar Love, and Vladimir Zworykin helped refine the new communications device.

8

The next step, of course, was color television, first broadcast from the CBS laboratories by Peter Goldmark in 1940. Now more than 95 percent of the homes in American have television, about half of them in color.

9

In 1969 when man first landed on the moon, it was natural that millions of people would expect to participate by means of radio and TV. And they did, via live telecast from the moon's surface.

Of course man's exploration of space did not stop with the landing on the moon. Photos and telemetric data have been transmitted 1,200,000,000 miles from unmanned spacecrafts. The communications capabilities of the inhabitants of "spaceship earth" seem limitless indeed.

10

An even more exciting breakthrough in communication is occurring RIGHT NOW.

SPIRICOM —
Its Development & Potential

Significance of the SPIRICOM Breakthrough

It is not surprising that the 1981 SPIRICOM communications with the "dead" are as crude as — and much more uncertain than — were the initial message exchanges via telegraph, telephone, wireless telegraph and radio. The technical problems still to be solved are infinitely greater.

Nevertheless, the accompanying recording establishes beyond reasonable doubt the reality of the continuity of life. The printed materials supply the basis for understanding how and why the individual mind, memory banks, personality and soul survive death of the physical body. As a whole, the packet provides full confirmation of the following statements:

- For the first time in Mankind's history, it has been proven incontrovertibly that death is merely a door to continuing life.
- It is now certain that individual consciousness—what we often refer to as personality—continues to exist and function in a disease-free and pain-free environment.
- The needless and destructive fear of death can be removed, as well as the deep concern over the passing of a loved one.
- The taboo our culture has imposed on the whole subject of death can also be removed.
- Something else that can be jettisoned is the accumulated non-productive religious dogma that has ruined countless lives over the centuries to the extent that it imposed burdens of fear and guilt.
- The knowledge that the mind and soul transcend death of the physical body will help Man begin to understand that it is his own thoughts and emotions that largely determine whether he will experience sickness, or enjoy vibrant physical and mental health in this life.
- SPIRICOM developments can bring about changes in both science and religion, to the improvement of both.
- Each individual can begin to realize that he or she is a permanent inhabitant of an apparently limitless cosmos, and not just a soul-less maze-running rat or corn-pecking pigeon as proclaimed by present-day behavioristic psychologists.
- In the decades or centuries ahead when SPIRICOM is perfected to the point where it can be used to communicate with the mental and causal planes, mortal man will have access to the accumulated wisdom of the ages on any subject.

That is quite an imposing list, isn't it—to result from the development of SPIRICOM. How many events in the history of Man have had more profound implications for the future of the human race?
